Claims 9 – 15 are cancelled.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1 – 8 are allowed.

Reasons for Allowance

The following is a statement of reasons for indication of allowable subject matter.

The prior art fails to teach or suggest the limitations of:

- the trust receiving...first proceeds from the issuance of...securities;
- the trust purchasing...shares of common stock with the first proceeds;
- the trust issuing...a call spread portfolio on the purchased shares of common stock; [and]
- the trust receiving...second proceeds from the issuance of the call spread portfolio. (as in Claim 1).

Such limitation is present in all independent claims.

It is old and well known in the art for investors to establish a trust to perform transactions pertaining to financial instruments on their behalf.

The instant application distinguishes from these old and well known practices by dictating a specific sequence of inter-related transactions pertaining to financial instruments that is not disclosed by the prior art.

Aberman (US PG Pub. 2003/0225656) discloses a method/system for establishing a trust (real estate investment trust) performing transactions pertaining to financial instruments (preferred stock with a forward purchase contract obligation). (see abstract; para. 9; para. 27; para. 32). Neither this patent, alone nor in combination with others, discloses nor suggests the specific sequence of inter-related transactions pertaining to financial instruments as claimed by the Applicant.

Bodie (Bodie, Zvi; Kane, Alex; Marcus, Alan J. Investments. 4th Edition. Irwin McGraw-Hill. 1999. pp. 72 – 81, 102—106, 181 - 186, 611 - 614, 626 - 638 and 858 - 859) discloses the general methodologies employed in performing the various transactions pertaining to financial instruments, although such disclosures segregated the transactions into isolated and separate financial transactions rather than the specific sequence of inter-related transactions as claimed by the Applicant. Neither this non-patent literature, alone nor in combination with others, discloses nor suggests the specific sequence of inter-related transactions pertaining to financial instruments as claimed by the Applicant.
